Works in progress

Our Relationships with Animals (w/Rob Streiffer)

- Book project that develops a relationalist approach in animal ethics
- Makes substantial contributions in both normative ethics and in animal ethics
- Continues a research program that Streiffer and I have been developing over the course of three co-authored papers thus far (all of which have been or soon will be published in top journals)

'What is Activism?' (w/Richard Rowland)

- Develops a new theory about the nature and value of activism

'Moral Occasionalism' (w/Jacob Sparks)

- An elaboration and defense of an occasionalist view that Sparks and I have both independently been moving towards
- To be presented in November 2020 for UCSD MAPPS

'Roadkill and the Moral Dimensions of Veganism as a Social Movement'

- Invited chapter in an edited volume on 'the new omnivorism' edited by Cheryl Abbate and Christopher Bobier
- Argues that eating roadkill is almost always wrong; to be paired against a defense of eating roadkill by Donald Brucker

'Normative Domains'

- Corrects and improves upon the normative domain pluralism that I outlined in my 2019 OSME paper

'Moral Fixed Points, Wittgenstein-style'

- Develops a Wittgensteinian version of the fixed-points theory suggested by Cuneo and Shafer-Landau. Committed to a Routledge volume edited by Jonathan Beale and Richard Rowland; due Jan. 1 2021

'Grandstanding is Fine: Reply to Tosi and Warmke' (w/Danny Weltman)

- Defends grandstanding (self-serving moral talk) against Tosi and Warmke's critique

'Relationalism and the Use of Animals for Scientific Purposes'

- This is an invited chapter on 'reduction, replacement, and refinement in animal use in research' in Erick Valdés and Juan Alberto Lecaros (eds.), Handbook of Bioethical Decisions (Springer). Due April 2021
